

EFG International announces senior management appointments

Zurich, 10 December 2010. EFG International has announced two senior management appointments.

EFG International is making the following senior management appointments:

- Alain Diriberry will become CEO of EFG Bank in Switzerland, effective 1st January 2011. Lukas Ruffin served as CEO of EFG Bank from January 2010, and having put in place an ambitious new organic growth strategy for the business will now focus entirely on his role as Deputy CEO of EFG International. Alain Diriberry will devote all his time and efforts to managing and growing EFG Bank.

Alain Diriberry has been Chief Operating Officer of EFG International since July 2008, and will continue as a member of the EFG International Executive Committee. Before this he was Head of Private Banking, Geneva, and before that Deputy CEO and COO of EFG Bank. He joined EFG in 2003, having formerly worked for Coutts, where his last role was as Head of Private Banking for Switzerland.

- Mark Bagnall will take over from Alain Diriberry as Chief Operating Officer of EFG International, also with effect from 1st January 2011. He will join the EFG International Executive Committee. Mark Bagnall joined EFG International in December 2008, and is presently Global Chief Technology Officer. Mark was formerly at Merrill Lynch (London & Geneva) where he was Head of International Private Client & Wealth Management Technology.
