

EFG International announces senior appointment in relation to Central and Eastern Europe

Zurich, 18 December 2015. EFG International has recruited Dmitri Rozanov, further strengthening its capabilities in relation to Central and Eastern Europe.

EFG Private Bank, the UK business of EFG International, has recruited Dmitri Rozanov to be Managing Director, Private Banking and member of the Management Committee, responsible for the CEE team. He will oversee a team of seven experienced Client Relationship Officers, all recent hires, and will co-ordinate the development of EFG Private Bank's business in CEE, Russia, and the CIS.

He is based in London, and reports to Anthony Cooke-Yarborough, CEO, EFG Private Bank. He will also work very closely with Michael Vlahovic, based in Zurich, who joined EFG International in July as Managing Director, Private Banking Eastern Europe and Russia as well as Global Market Coordinator for CEE, Russia and the CIS.

Dmitri Rozanov was formerly at Coutts & Co. where from 2011 he was the Head of Russia/CIS and CEE business in the UK. Prior to this, he had a fifteen-year career in investment banking, during which he was responsible for CEE M&A business at Merrill Lynch and held various senior corporate finance positions at J.P. Morgan and Deutsche Bank.

Anthony Cooke-Yarborough, Chief Executive, EFG Private Bank:

- "I am delighted that Dmitri Rozanov has joined us. He brings extensive experience serving private clients across Central and Eastern Europe, which is one of our growth markets. In the UK, we already had a strong position, but the addition of Dmitri overseeing a team of recently hired bankers represents a notable strengthening of both our coverage and capabilities. Both Dmitri and I are committed to establishing EFG as a bank of choice for clients from this region".
